Dean Lawshe Speaks On Work Concepts

Dr. Charles H. Lawshe, Assistant Dean of the Purdue Graduate School, gave the first guest lecture of the 1955 fall semester.

Dr. Lawshe's lecture, "Psychology in Education and Industry," eonsidered basic concepts of personnel psychology and discussed techniques whereby psychologists endeavor to predict and control human behavior.

Personnel psychology has led industrialists to fit men into jobs for whieh they are adapted. Those hiring workers look for people with (1) the ability to do the job; (2) the skill to do the job; (3) the desire to do the job.

Man is being adapted to do his job better as a result of what is known as "human engineering," a phase of psychology that has helped man socially and economically in such fields as communications, marketing, and advertising.

Through continued research and service, those working in personnel psychology attempt to help people lead full and more satisfying lives.

Student Senate Organizes

GOVERNING BODY AT PURDUE FORMULATES WELL-PLANNED PROGRAM

The student senate went into action with the opening of its first meeting.

Assembly meetings were to be held once a month and the Executive board will meet bi-weekly.

President Mathis announced to the senate the committees which are going to function this next year. Students are invited to participate in the following committees;

Permanent Committees:

Lounge Committee - arranging and keeping the lounge orderly.

Social Committee - making arrangements for dances and social functions.

Council Property Committee - gathering and supervising of property at social functions.

Publicity and Bulletin Board Committee - gathering and posting of announcements.

Lost and Found Committee - collecting and holding lost articles.

Constitution Committee - supervising necessary changes in constitution when problems arise.

Temporary Committees:

Christmas Assembly Committee - makes all necessary arrangements for Christmas assembly.

Orientation Committee - helps in arrangement of orientation of entering Freshmen.

Scholarship Committee - scholarship encouragement.

Purdue Participates In College Night At Hammond High

Mr. Alexander, Registrar, represented Purdue Calumet Campus at Hammond High School's College Night, held Nov. 15. Mr. Alexander usually represents both the Calumet and Lafayette campuses, but on Nov. 15 Mr. Sterling Shaw, Admission Counselor of the registrar's office at Lafayette, represented the downstate campus. Sixty-six other colleges and universities had representatives there, along with personnel from several nursing schools and art schools.

College night was attended by students interested in entering college and by many of the students' parents. The main purpose of College Night was to acquaint students with the curricula of the schools attending the evening's sessions. The students were given information to help them find the schools best adapted to their interests and needs. Questions on all phases of college life were answered. The session proved to be a very profitable one.

Mr. Alexander has already participated in quite a few college nights and has a full schedule ahead of him in the coming weeks.

Frank Reynolds Will Address Purdue Center Group

Mr. Frank Reynolds, the well known newspaperman and sportscaster from CBS WBBM, WBBM T. V. and CBS T. V. will deliver an address on "Behind the Scenes in T. V. and Sports," in which he will relate some of his personal experiences, coupled with a few humorous incidents and some ironical statements.

This very interesting discussion will be given in Room 111 between 12-1 p.m. on November 16, 1955. This is an hour when almost all students can be present.

Mr. Reynolds, who lives in Munster, does sportscasting of baseball, football and hockey games, in this area and fills in for Bob Elson, on occasions. He started his career here in Hammond on WJOB, broadcasting local football and basketball as well as newscasting.

Parking Problem at Center Increased by Violations By Students

State Police Request Cooperation By Students

Although Purdue Calumet Campus is limited in the amount of parking space which can be alloted to the students, there is no reason why the parking regulations set up by the administration cannot be obeyed, according to school officials here. Some of these regulations are necessary as safety or fire control factors, while others are set up to protect property, and the remainder to provide a place for the faculty to park in, they pointed out.

Trooper Steve Ranich, Safety Education Officer for Dunes Park Post, commented on the situation by saying, "It would seem to me, that an intelligent, mature, group of persons, such as these students, would be capable of cooperating with the authorities on a matter such as this." Trooper Ranich's comment was considered quite appropriate. Why the student body cannot cooperate "like an intelligent, mature group of individuals" is beyond the comprehension of those in charge of parking.

The trouble evidently stems from a lack of knowledge, which shouldn't be, officials pointed out, because the regulations have been posted, published, and read in class any number of times. They are, in a condensed form, Obey Parking Signs! Don't park closer to the building than the last painted parking space.

Local Professor Speaks at Lafayette

Professor H. A. Williamson will speak at a state-wide conclave of group leaders of B'Nai B'rith, November 20 on Lafayette campus, Purdue U. This meeting, lasting throughout the day is a concentrated training session in leadership. Attendees are members who will lead youth groups in cities throughout the state.

Prof. Williamson will appear on the program for the purpose of covering fundamental practices in public speaking. Such areas as speech organization, audience adaptation and effective delivery will be presented.

Professor H. A. Williamson addressed a joint meeting of the Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Delta field chapters of Phi Delta Kappa last Monday night at Gary.

The subject of Prof. Williamson's talk was Communication— W ritten and Spoken English. Considerable emphasis was placed on the need for educators to recognize the increasing industrial demand for men who can express their thoughts. It was pointed out that one function of all of the educational institutions must be that of placing greater stress on written and spoken expression.

Jive Hounds Jump At Senate Platter Party

The dance held in the lounge Oct. 22, 1955 was a big success, due in part to the records furnished by Dave MacCartney and Joe Gayor, and in part to the hard work put in by the rest of the Councils' committee.

The evening was a pleasant one to all because there was a pretty close to even ratio of girls to boys, and the persons who played the records kept a varied selection before the crowd. The lack of polkas will be corrected at the next dance.

Some emphasis should be placed on the hospitality of the male students towards the student nurses from St. Margaret Hospital. The boys should take the initiative in "breaking up" the group of nurses and make the ladies feel right at home. The committee hopes. this will also be corrected by the next dance and that another rip-snortin' good time will be in store for all.

WHO AM I?

I am the foundation from which all blessings flow. Life has more savor because of me. I am the sole support of the poor, and those who think they can do without me live futile lives. I have made America. I have built her huge industries, laid her miles of railroads, created her cities and constructed her skyscrapers. I am represented in every newspaper that comes off the press, in every loaf that comes out of the oven, in every ship that sails the seas. Fools do not like me, while wise men do. The man who keeps his hand in mine throughout his life never dies—because that which we create lives on after he is gone. Who am I? I am work!

This Is Yours...

From the Book of Paul in the Bible, I quote, "When I was a child, I spake as a child, but when I became a man, I spake as a man!" This quotation sets the theme of this editorial. Many of us have left the high school far behind; for some it has been very recent. Yet we should all have one thing in common—maturity. Some of us are well into adulthood, some of us are just growing accustomed to ourselves, and others are approaching it. Nevertheless, whether young or old, certain unknown persons have not been treating the University Lounge as their home. They seem to feel that the good manners and upbringing which their parents impressed on them can be forgotten upon entering the hallowed halls of this extension. Such is not the case, for this is your home during the hours that you are here. You, you, and you will study, lounge, and eat here. It is the latter that I am specifically referring to.

An act so simple as cleaning off the table upon which you have been eating is being too easily forgotten. Another act is the placing of debris and utensils in the proper places when finished with them—which is not being done. Further, it seems that the people are forgetting to replace the chairs and tables in an orderly manner. What does this mean? It means that an unsightly condition is presented to the student, the teacher, and the visitor. It also means that the girls who work at the counter must clean up the mess that somebody else has left. Is it all right? No! NO! No! An unsightly mess is disgusting to those who live with it and also those who may visit us. What an impression that must make. In addition, the girl who is supposed to serve food, has a line a mile long because she is out cleaning the tables and rearranging the room.

You asked what can I do? It's very simple. When you finish eating or refreshing yourself, clean off your table, place your debris in the proper receptacle, place your eating utensils in the proper place, and place your chair underneath the table. If you should happen to see anyone failing to do this, kindly ask them to do so by reminding them that this is not only their home, but your home, and you do not wish to see it so affronted or disgraced. Such action as this will make a nicer looking lounge, better service from the counter, and no more words from this editor about these conditions.

It looks as though everyone has finally settled down to work this semester, and already I have little fragments of nothings here and there.

I am glad to report that the big brown-eyed, buck-toothed guy is finally getting recognition from his bashful barefoot friend . . . there is a certain fella around P.U.C.C. who always eats lunch at the H. Post, he wears a white belt with white shoes. What I would like to know is, who are you looking for, VIC. . . . Is it true, TEX, that a few little kids have been scared by your turbo prop . . . Also there is a little understanding that a blue-eyed blonde, who has a habit of taking her shoes off, is having lover trouble. . . . Who was it who yelled "Help Wolf" in the student lounge the other day . . . O, yes, congratulations CHAR . . . What about that red and black Plymouth that is parked in the part time instructors lot every day—what do you say ANDY? . . . And believe it or not, JUDY was on time for her Calculus class, in the morning, too, and a certain Mr. P. was in the lounge yesterday without a Pepsi in his hand, or his pocket . . . And don't forget, only 32 more shopping days till Christmas . . . but by no means that long to NEW YEAR'S EVE. And a big vote of thanks to CUFF and COMMODORE who are splendidly helping out with the social activities this year.

A Word About Your Editor

Born in New Orleans, Louisiana, on April 27, 1927, he has been anything but a Southerner. In 1931 he started to travel and moved to New York City, where he lived for seventeen years. During that time he resided and went to school in Brooklyn, Long Island, and Manhattan.

About the second year of high school (1942) he went to Greenbrier Military School, in Lewisburg, West Virginia, for two years. Then with the draft age coming close he left for summer sehool and a speed-up course in military science, and a high school curriculum at The Pennsylvania Military School for one year.

Around May of 1945, your editor at the age of eighteen went into the Navy, taking his "boot training" at Sampson Navy Base in New York State. He eventually ended up in Hospital Corps School in San Diego, Calif., and came out with a top rating in the medical division. He went off active duty in 1947. However, John did not actually end an interesting career in the Navy until February, 1952.

In a short interval between service and school he was a counselor and a dramatie and music coach at Big Brother's Camp in New Jersey.

In the fall of 1947 he entered the University of Virginia, to start toward a medical career. However, after a year of indecision he realized the need for satisfying the yearn for the wide open spaces out here in the middle west and traveled to the Calumet Region to end up living in Calumet City.

Upon arriving out here, he began working at Inland Steel in 1948 and has been there ever since. About 1950 he entered the Calumet Center of Purdue, at the old Board of Education Building, and continued the studies he had begun at the University of Virginia.

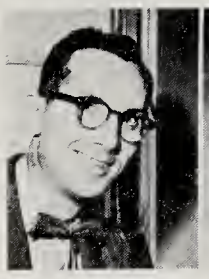
Bill Gross

When we around Purdue speak of the man in the white coat, we usually mean Bill Gross, laboratory assistant in the chemistry department here.



ALEXANDER

PAUL AND MICHAEL REED

Bill was born in New Kensington, Pa., but moved to Gary when he was seven. He attended grade school in Gary and high school at Gary Roosevelt.

In high school he played clarinet in the school band and graduated as Salutatorian of his senior class.

After high school he spent one year at Morehouse College in Atlanta, Georgia, where he sang in the Glee Club and played clarinet in both orchestra and band.

His college career was interrupted at the end of the first year. He was sent to the army in July of 1943. During his stay with Uncle Sam, he served with the Army Medical Corps in Hawaii and various bases in the U. S.

After his discharge in February of 1946, Bill worked a year before going back to school. In September of 1947 he began his Sophomore year at Roosevelt College in Chicago, where he received his Bachelor's degree in Chemistry in June of 1950. He is now working on his Master's Degree.

Last year was Bill's first year at Purdue Extension.

As far as sports are concerned, Bill is interested in them all and has tried them all.

From his experience with music in both high school and college, Bill has learned to love good music. He leans toward Beethoven's symphonies in classical music and leans away from modern-day jazz.

MR. ERNEST ALEXANDER

This year Purdue Center boasts a new registrar. He is Mr. Ernest Alexander. He was born in Elwood, Indiana, where he lived prior to the time he left to attend college.

Upon graduation from Ball State Teachers College, he received both a BS and an MA degree in Business administration and English. He also has enough credit hours in Art educatiton to teach art, which he has done.

After he graduated from college he went into the service and served in such European countries as Germany, France, and Switzerland.

Upon returning to the states he taught in several Indiana and Ohio schools including Greenville, Ohio, and Frankfort, Indiana.

After this he was appointed by the U. S. Dept. of Education to teach in Tokyo, Japan.

While he was in Japan his days were occupied by teaching in an American high school. In the evenings he taught English as a foreign language to Japanese students attending Tokyo University. He also taught at the University of California extension in Tokyo.

This reporter concludes that Mr. Alexander is one of the season's most eligible bachelors.

PAUL AND MICHAEL REED

You guessed it! These fellows are brothers.

They were born in Hammond but moved to Dyer in 1943, where they attended St. Joseph's Grade School and St. John Township High School.

This is their second year at Purdue Extension. Next year will find both boys at Purdue Campus.

There are nine in the Reed family. Out of these nine, six have their own home radio units. This constitutes the main interest of both boys. They have communicated with people in such faraway places as Japan and Portugal.

They are both members of Civil Defense in the communications division and were helpful during the Standard Oil fire and Hammond flood.

They have supplied communicatiton for the Red Cross and Fire Dept.

Keep it up boys—it is worthy of your time and effort.

Student Council Holds Elections

The elections of officers and Representatives to the Student Council were held last month. The officers elected by the student body were Carolyn Barnard, treasurer (who defeated an anonymous candidate —one Joe Stalin by a large margin) and Judy Shields, secretary (who had a similar experience with one Karl Marx.) The officers elected by the council body were Glenn Mathis, president, and Bob Rocuba, who defeated Ray Napiwocki for vice-president.

The Representatives elected by the various classes are: Technical Institute — Joe Bukovich, Hondo Poklemba, and Martin O'Melia; Freshman — Charlene Chasteler, Leon La Fontaine, Vincent Ortega, and Bernie Wontorek; Sophomore— Don Dunkelbarger, Dale Griesel, Ed Wright, and Arie A. Isaac.

The election was characterized by an increase of over 50% in the number voting, and a great increase in cooperation, over last year's election. It is hoped that the trend set by this election will continue throughout the whole pattern of Student Affairs.

When the Northern Indiana Association of High school Mathematics teachers met here at Purdue Calumet Center Friday, October 28, they heard two excellent speakers.

Dr. Philip Peak from Indiana University whose subject was "Vocabulary and its Relation to Mathematics Instruction," was the first speaker.

Dr. Peak's talk was followed by a coffee break after which the second speaker, Dr. Philip Jones, associate professor of Math and Science at the University of Michian was introduced. Dr. Jones spoke on the "Application of Mathematics as Teaching Tools."

Members of the association were then served luncheon during which they were entertained with music by the Hobart High School Glee Club directed by Gene Simons.

The officers of the association are Warren Garner of Hobart, chairman and Mrs. Jessie P. Brown of Gary Emerson High School, secretary.

Electrical Class . .

7, and the other group during the evening.

The outstanding feature of the visit was the immensity of the operations. To supply approximately 300 kilowatts of electrical energy requires the consumption of about 4,000 tons of coal daily. The coal is received by rail and barge and is cleaned, crushed, and stored in huge bins high above the ground level. From there it is fed by gravity and air pressure into the giant boiler fire pits. Endless chain beds which carry coal into the pits allow it to burn and then drop the ashes underneath. Burning, however, is so efficient that there is very little ash and very little smoke.

Loose Rivets In the Boiler

By John Millard

The basketball team travels to Traverse City, Michigan this year. The Traverse City game is usually the game of the year, because they certainly know how to treat visitors in royal fashion up in the Wolverine country. All students who are interested in chartering a bus for the trip are welcome to use this column to further their purpose. Also, students who are driving and want to take riders, or students who want to get a ride for the game, are free to use this sounding board as a meeting place. Turn your names in soon, and we'll do the best we can to get everybody together and arrange things to the satisfaction of all persons concerned.

It is also known that a certain new faculty member is very willing to help out with the basketball team, (and you can take my word for it, he builds fine teams), if he is asked to. This cooperation is certainly appreciated by the student body and I think those members of the faculty who are so willing to help out are certainly owed a vote of thanks.

We hope that this spirit will spread throughout the whole faculty, and not just be limited to new men (such men as Mr. Tinkham, who is doing such a fine job for the Boilermaker, as well as those already mentioned).

Basketball Season Opens Nov. 22

By John Booster

There will be two games within the next month. The first game is November 22 at Joliet and the second is on December 7 at Wright Jr. College, Joliet, Ill. Joliet is about 30 miles from Hammond, only an hour's drive, so I think that student attendance should be pretty good if you are interested at all in your school.

Wright Jr. College is located at 3400 N. Austin in Chicago and is 25 miles from Hammond, so I should say that either game is within reach of all who own a car and is not so far that everyone who is interested in good old Purdue Calumet Campus cannot go. Lets get some drive and attend these games.
